Scoville Heat Scale – Rating Process

The effective heat of chilli peppers is measured in scoville heat units (shu). This is defined as the number of times a chilli extract needs to be diluted in water for it to lose its heat. At the lowest end of the scale are bell pepper ranking at 0 shu. Jalapenos rate between 3 to 6,000 shu and Habanero top 300,000 shu.

Our extensive range of Chilli Peppers are available from mild flavours to the unbelievably hot.

The heat value of the Pepper is measured in Scovilles (Shu). Our hot and fiery range which includes the NEW Armageddon (1.3million Shu) and NEW Caroline Reaper (upto 1.4million Shu) are not for the faint hearted!
